

Document Retention Policies

From the National Council of NonProfits

Some documents and business records of a nonprofit should be maintained permanently, such as:

- Articles of Incorporation
- Determination Letter from the IRS
- insurance policies
- minutes of meetings
- corporate resolutions

Just as removing emails from your inbox on a regular basis is good housekeeping, so is discarding non-essential paperwork from old file cabinets. But what if you inadvertently throw out something critical? How will your staff know what to discard and what to save? Having a document retention/destruction policy will give everyone guidance on what to save, what to archive, and what to shred – and when.

The IRS explains why it asks about document retention policies on the Form 990:

"A document retention and destruction policy identifies the record retention responsibilities of staff, volunteers, board members, and outsiders for maintaining and documenting the storage and destruction of the organization's documents and records." (Source: Instructions to the Form 990 page 20)

The Sarbanes-Oxley Act's prohibition of the destruction of documents that are subject to review in litigation provides an additional rationale for every nonprofit adopting a document retention policy. This will create a regular business practice of systematic document destruction in accordance with an approved schedule. Having a written policy, and regular business practice of document destruction according to a schedule, lets people know what documents to retain (and for how long). Such a policy is not only a prudent practice but also sound risk management.

The process of developing a document retention policy involves: (1) Identifying what types of paperwork (and electronic files) your nonprofit generates; (2) Determining the appropriate (and legal) length of time to retain them; and (3) Recording those retention times on a written schedule.

The IRS has explicitly stated that adoption of the policies and practices about which the new Form 990 asks is not mandatory, although the IRS has also indicated that it attaches significance to the manner in which all tax-exempt nonprofit organizations govern themselves. Each organization should determine if a formal policy should be adopted.
